Credits awarded: 7 ECTSPeriod: First semester, block 1.1. Introduction

The module is an element of the second component (Core Course, 25 ECTS) of the NOHA Joint Master's Degree in International Humanitarian Action to be completed during the first semester. It forms a recognised part of the curriculum and is a requirement for obtaining the NOHA Master's degree.

This module aims at providing participants with general knowledge about management of organisations and processes with special focus on managerial techniques and methods applicable to humanitarian action. It also offers insight to main differences in managing various types of organisations, including public sector, private sector and charities. Another important aspect of this course is focus on managerial innovations that might be particularly useful in day-to-day activities of humanitarian aid organisations. This module is based on open formula, including direct involvement of participants and adjusting detailed scope of the course to their needs.

2. Learning outcomes

In conformity with the learning outcomes set out by the NOHA network, students should achieve the following learning outcomes by the end of this module:

- knowledge about key management paradigms applicable also to managing humanitarian action
- general knowledge on crucial aspects of managing organisations with special focus on institutions conducting humanitarian action
- understanding of major managerial challenges in humanitarian action
- an ability to identify and respond to the major ethical challenges in humanitarian action work
